SECOND GENERAL SESSION

9:30 AM

TODD HUNT

Does Anal Retentive Have A Hyphen?

Do you eat M&Ms in color order? Alphabetize your cereal boxes? Rearrange the dishwasher because you don't like the way your significant other loaded it? If so, you'll appreciate Todd Hunt's take on business and life. (If not, you'll still laugh, and be glad you're not like him!)

He's a Recovering Anal Retentive Professional (RARP), who finally learned to lighten up, after working for two decades in the corporate world. Now he speaks for organizations that want to add fun to their meetings and send members back to work smiling, with tips to improve communication and success.

As a kindergartner, Todd hated finger-painting. "Those rubber gloves were so hot!" But it was good training for his future career as a business humorist. His message is simple: we all mess up communicating...and we're hilarious.

You'll howl as he acts out voice mail greetings, showing how we waste 240 hours each year waiting for the beep. His demonstration of the "correct" way to order fast food will challenge you to consider where your listener is coming from. And his recollection of junior high English teacher Miss Reiser will bring back memories of your own (fond or otherwise).

His books include "Does Anal Retentive Have a Hyphen?" (an extension of his keynote speech, with good-natured ribs at himself and A-Rs everywhere), and "Pardon Me, But That's a Really Stupid Sign!" (136 actual signs and product labels that are beyond belief, but they're all true). His newspaper column, "Communication Bleeps and Blunders in Business," appears in the United States and Canada, and he appears on several CD and DVD programs.
